

Powerway® Document Control Intranet Publisher

Powerway Intranet Publisher publishes and maintains documentation from your corporate document management system to the company intranet.

- New documents are automatically copied to the web site and linked to the Contents pages.
- Updated revisions automatically replace superseded documents (as they become current).
- Expired or rescinded documents are automatically removed from the site.
- Links seamlessly with Powerway Desktop, giving you a complete document creation/management solution.

Powerway Intranet Publisher solves the biggest problems associated with corporate intranet site by converting, indexing and maintaining the registration and expiration of the documents without tying up human resources to do so. Using a three component system consisting of an agent, a collection administrator and a site administrator, Powerway Intranet Publisher automatically publishes, maintains and expires registered documentation from the corporate document management system to the company intranet.

Using Intranet Publisher you can be assured the information posted on your company intranet is always current.

Agent

The Agent (server) monitors the document control services, automatically renders new documents, copies them to the Intranet site and updates collection table of contents pages according to established Collection and Sites rules.

Collection Administration

The Collection Administration (workstation) maintains Collection Control Documents which set the rules for how the Collection Index Page will look, how documents are rendered, and other collection level maintenance.

Site Administration

The Site Administration (workstation) maintains Site Control Documents which define the look and feel of the site (using various templates), which Collections are on a site, Site update frequency, and Site diagnostics.

Powerway Intranet Publisher is just one of the modules integrated into Powerway Suite 2000, a completely integrated software solution. Suite 2000 promotes teamwork and enhances performance by giving you the
